Ron Elvidge - husband, family man, Herald Islander, bringer of 1000's of babies into the world, All Black legend

It was 1975. Ron Elvidge asked a mutual friend who she thought would be a suitable person for him to take to a dinner at his son's school. Dawn, then a widow and teaching at EGGS seemed to fit the bill. She didn't know the rules of rugby, had never been to a game and all her sons played hockey.

So they were an 'odd couple' with wide and different interests - but as it is said, opposites attract.

They married in 1978 and their blended family consisted of five boys and two girls aged between 14 and 19. Holidays at the bach in the Bay of Islands were chaotic, with numerous tents, and lots of comings and goings over the years, but all worked well together.

Ron was a practising Obstetrician/Gynaecologist with a shared practice in Remuera. During his lifetime he delivered thousands of babies and his very large All Black hands were famous in the delivery suite.

One letter to Dawn following Ron's passing last month was from a very grateful mother who had been under the care of the McFarlane, Grieve & Elvidge practice all those years ago. She wrote - "Kindness, and understanding, and empathy and just plain generosity of spirit, were the criteria they all applied to us all."

Anyone who has spent some time with Ron, will completely understand this comment. He was generous with his time, particularly with children. He gave local budding rugby players mementos of his rugby years and was always encouraging. It made them feel very special.

In 1981 Ron decided to move out west to a life style block in Taupaki. He continued to commute to the Remuera clinic leaving Dawn to rapidly learn about kiwifruit, gardening and cattle. Ron was not a gardener.

Then another move in the early nineties brought them to Herald Island where with careful renovations and a no-lawns-to-mow garden, the family architects created a good home base for retirement.

Ron and Dawn holidayed overseas and in their home territory of the South Island, were members of the North-West U3A, and thoroughly enjoyed local HI activities—cricket, raft race days, music and vintage car days, markets and Halloween, the Christmas morning parade and the very special celebrations of HI Independence Day in 1995, and the 150 years of European Settlement on the island in 1999. Ron was also an enthusiastic member of the HI Art Group and played golf at Muriwai.

Dawn feels they had more than forty good years together and his was a life to celebrate.

From all of us at The Causeway and those who knew Ron and those who did not but appreciated who he was...

Rest in peace Ron. A life well-lived.

Ron Elvidge – All Blacks Captain and the oldest living All Black until his passing on 30 March.

The following article is an abridged version of an article written by journalist and Whenuapai resident, Suzanne McFadden, for The Causeway some 9 years ago.

Ron, one of the true gentlemen of the island, doesn't dwell on the day he scored one of the great heroic tries in All Black history at Wellington in 1950, when he was the All Black captain. He's more concerned now with spending time with his wife Dawn and their family.

But every now and then, someone will remind him of the third test against the British Lions at Athletic Park – where, carrying an agonizing shoulder injury, he crashed over for the only try in the match, narrowly won by the All Blacks 6-3, to give the New Zealanders the series victory.

"There's the odd one who remembers who I was and how I played in those tests," Ron says. "But they're one in a million these days."

But the facts are still clear: Ron's try was a dramatic matchwinner that lives on in All Black history today.

Just before halftime, Ron, playing in the midfield, seriously injured his collarbone and suffering a gash in his face that needed four stitches.

"It was unintentional, but just a damn nuisance," Ron recalls. He was a sixth-year medical student at Otago University at the time, and one of his fellow students put a couple of sutures on the wound.

He left the field in obvious agony but was forced to return to the game early in the second half, because the All Blacks were already down to 14 men when prop Johnny Simpson wrenched his knee. In those days, the rules of rugby didn't allow replacements.

"It was a silly time when they had no replacements. It might have been regrettable for players who had to go back on with a serious injury," Ron says.

"I remember coming back on and just roving around aimlessly in the back line." When the try came, Ron was still shaky and groggy from his injury but made a push for the line, supported by his teammates.

"I just happened to be there in the right place at the right time. It was a bit of a case of 'did he fall or was he pushed?'" he laughs. "It was a big deal in those days to beat the Lions. They had some damn fine ball players too."

Ron was unable to play in the fourth test and ended his playing career after that to concentrate on his medical career. He played 19 matches for the All Blacks, including nine tests, excelling at both second five and centre, while balancing it all with his studies.

Epic cricket test battle Whenuapai vs Herald Island

Another great battle took place on Sunday 24th of March between the two rivals - Whenuapai and Herald Island. The Herald Island domain was transformed into a cricket ground worthy of a test match with the established trees marking the boundary.

It was great to see both communities coming together to put on a spectacular match with both teams being cheered on by a large number of supporters. With the weather looking doubtful in the morning it cleared up for a battle worthy of a cricket world cup final.

Whenuapai worked hard to defend the cup but Herald Island who had the home advantage edged out Whenuapai in the last over. Cricket and sportsmanship was the winner on the day. Both teams will be watching the cricket world cup carefully to pick up any tips and tricks which may give their team the winning advantage next time Herald Island and Whenuapai play.

Thanks to all players and spectators for a great afternoon out!

Funky Glass Art a hit for Wednesday Craft

Great coffee, op shops and mosaic supplies up in Warkworth! We had a trip to check out a small mosaic supply shop called 'Funky Glass Art'. It should be called the 'hard to find shop', situated in the commercial area, within a tiling shop. It's only small, a neat little shop full of all things mosaics, but it's the side trips to multiple Op Shops that quickly deplete your funds! All in all, it was a lovely way to spend a day with an enthusiastic group of ladies.

The Wednesday Crafters meet every Wednesday morning from 9.30am-12noon at the Old Fire Station on Ferry Parade, Herald Island (unless we're out on a trip). All welcome, call in for a cuppa and see what we're doing this week.

Kowhai Beach Reserve given more love

Community Clean-up – Saturday 30th March, 9am to 12noon

Once a popular sandy Herald Island beach, over the years Kowhai Beach Reserve became forgotten and neglected. Some say the Causeway structure altered current flows leading to loss of sand and erosion of land. But now we're another step closer to restoring it to its former glory thanks to the 20 hard-working Herald Islanders who gave it some love at a clean-up on Saturday the 30 March.

The Herald Island Environmental Group has been caring for this reserve since 2012 as it is a valuable area of coastal bush and salt marsh.

At this clean-up we tackled a large pile of pruning's that had lain there for so long that erosion had almost brought it to the water's edge and kikuyu had almost obscured it. Originally intended to be put to the match, new fire regulations prohibited this, and Auckland Council couldn't find a way to remove it. By morning tea time it had all been shifted up to the top!

Another team worked on a large patch of Wild Ginger, cutting off the seed heads first, then cutting the leaves just above the pink collar and spraying the cut bases with 0.5g mesulfuron per litre. The leaves were put in a weed bag and will compost down.

Thanks to all the members of the community and associated businesses who contributed in any way to the clean-up and to Auckland Council for taking away the vegetation. Every contribution counts. The reserve is now cleared of dumped vegetation and has less environmental weeds. Let's keep it that way and respect our precious foreshore.

Drone Photography of HI Waterways

The Herald Island Environmental Group will record the state of Herald Island waterways bi-annually by taking drone photographs of designated locations around the perimeter of the island. We'll do this at both high tide and low tide to provide a long-term record of water quality, sediment, erosion, mangroves and the foreshore reserves.

We will aim to do this during the week so as to minimise disturbing residents. Please note, that we have permission from Whenuapai airbase to do this. If anyone wishes to see the photos we will have a record of them. If you have any concerns, please contact either Mark Hackshaw 021-711-748 or Charissa Snijders 021-309-593.

Hobsonville Herb Group – herbal teas

At May's meeting we have Amanda from "Amanda's Tea" coming to tell us about her venture into growing and making herbal teas. She will be bringing product to sell.

"Our passion lies in blending tea for customers that are calming, restorative and regenerative by using old fashioned recipes and long forgotten herbs."

Hobsonville Herb Group meets monthly, next meeting:

Tuesday 7th May at 7.15pm. Whenuapai Village Hall, $5 entry. Visitors always welcome.

Dog washing station

Did you know that at Hobsonville there is a dog-washing station on one of the side-streets, which is particularly good for big dogs? We saw a retriever being washed and the owners said that it was great but next time they would bring a slip-mat for the dog as it didn't like the shiny plastic surface.

It's on Baffin Street, just off the main road through to the Hobsonville Market. Coin operated - $10.

Top picks this month at the Hobsonville Market/Catalina Bay

Little Creatures: Anyone who has been down there lately will see have seen all the new additions such as the Hobsonville Brewery (latest development from boutique beer company Little Creatures). It's in the old hangar which is a great space and designed so that you can see the beer vats through glass. Food, drinks, a kids' space and even a little side fish and chips shop.

Ferry service: Check out also the expanded ferry service to and from the city on the weekends – they go to quite late on Saturday nights.

Firing range at airbase: In case you missed the mailer in your letterbox, the Air Force has opened a new 25 metre Firing Range to "enable RNZAF service personnel to maintain their weapons proficiency." The range is 280 metres from the nearest house and replaces the firing range at Hobsonville (when it was part of the Whenuapai base).

Poppies by Fletcher Living Show Home

Whenuapai School children are making poppies for the Fletcher Living Show Home, on Ripeka Lane, Whenuapai (opposite The Parkhouse Cafe) for Anzac Day. Poppies will be put along the fence from 23-30 April, the community are welcome to add to the display. "Lest we forget"

The Causeway needs your help!

Measles – New Cases in Auckland

Measles symptoms: fever, cough, runny nose and sore red eyes. Three to five days later, a rash appears on the face before moving down the body.

If you think you or your child may have measles, seek medical advice – but call your doctor or healthcare centre before turning up so you can be isolated on arrival. Free health advice is also available by calling Healthline – 0800-611-116

Bouquets

Thank you to everyone who took a part in organising the 'Annual Herald Island Raft Race and Regatta Day' last month.

Bouquets to our sponsor and number one supporter Sue Noonan, Harcourts Real Estate, Hobsonville, to the Herald Island Environment Group who ran the barbeque on the day, your Herald Island Residents & Ratepayers Association (HIR&R) for setup and organising the event and lastly to our safety tender and chief duck floater, Geoff Beresford.

Herald Island Library April 2019

From the start of this year we have been forever chipping away at getting our books in order and culling the old and replacing them with better editions to please our readers.

It's almost like doing house work and as they say "a woman's (house) work is never done". We gratefully give thanks to our helpers for donating their time and for the donations of books and DVDs recently received.

Given that they are always donated by the locals it's in some respects a good indication of what our local people want or would like to read/see and feel that we can cater for them well.

Here I would like to thank Gill Clive who has recently moved off the Island to a smaller comfortable home up north. Gill has been on Herald Island for well over 20 years and has been an asset to our community, starting up the book club and helping in school and community functions for many years. We will miss her dearly.

We are very fortunate to have a reasonable range of the Whitcoulls' top 100 books to read as voted by the people in New Zealand. Take time to pop in to our wonderful library and view some of the excellent art work on display, or join us for a cuppa and a chat.

Our library: 57 Ferry Parade, Herald Island. Open Wednesdays and Saturdays 10am to 12noon, except in the school holidays and long weekends. For any enquiries with regard to offers of help, ordering or borrowing a book please phone Etta Gillon on 09-416-7638 or email: heraldislandlibrary@gmail.com

Remember Anzac Day is on the 25th April 2019. Help us commemorate our Herald Island event at the museum.

"We will Remember Them".

Have a Safe and Happy Easter!

Descendants of the early owners of Herald Island visit Ferry Parade museum -

Our friends Dianne Chambers and her sister-in-law Marg Coleman had been busy researching their family tree which connected them to the very early owners of Herald Island right back to 1897.

So they were very pleased to visit our Herald Island Museum (previously the Post Office and prior to that the School House) to gather more information on Dianne and her brother Rod's ancestors. The photos on display and the folders of printed off archives, confirmed that the handed down family stories, were indeed true.

Their Great Aunt, Maryann Coleman was married to Ewen Alison. The Alison family owned the Devonport Steam Ferry Company and bought Pine Island in 1897. For many decades, the company organized summer excursions to Islands in the Waitemata Harbour, including our tranquil spot.

Some of us have relatives who could recall the old double decker steam ferries full to overloaded, chugging up the inner harbour for their annual family picnic, on our sheltered shores. In those days there were dirt tracks to several sandy bays where they could swim and plenty of tall pines to rest under.

The Ferry company then planned to subdivide the land, but it didn't happen until 1928. This is when the streets were named after family members and associates. Alison and Coleman were named for Ewen and Maryann and Duncan possibly for Ewen's brother, although an article in the Museum suggests a colleague.

Holgate and George were named after Colonel Holgate, a DSFC Director and George Quick who helped set up the company.

Weeds to watch out for

Japanese Honeysuckle (Lonicera japonica)

When I moved to Herald Island I inherited a thick jungle of Japanese Honeysuckle. I cut the vines to ground level, treated the cut bases with Cut'n'Paste Mesulfuron Gel and then left the foliage hanging in the trees.

I went back every couple of weeks to catch new growth over that first winter. Two years on, I am free of the vines but still pulling the seedlings out as they pop-up at random. Now the steps down to The Terrace from the Herald Island Domain have also been successfully cleared of this pest plant, thanks to a community effort.

Japanese Honeysuckle was introduced into NZ as a fragrant, ornamental hedge plant but has become a serious pest plant. It's a vigorous climber capable of smothering and killing native plants. The sweet-smelling flowers are white, ageing to yellow and the berries are glossy black and spread by birds.

It's a hardy plant that sends out long stems that will readily root where they touch the ground, or will climb high up any support structure they can reach. The twining stems wind around each other to become thick, woody ropes reaching high-up in trees.

Control:

- * Small plants or rooted stems can be easily dug out whenever you spot them.
- * Keep long stems off the ground; hang in a tree to dry out.
- * Put green material in a secure black weed bag for a year to decompose.
- * For a bigger infestation, cut'n'paste with Metsulfuron gel or foliage spray with Metsulfuron at 0.5g per litre.

Check out The Causeway Calendar for details on "Weed It Out!" 4-5 May.

Cycling the 'Alps to the Ocean' Cycle Trail

In late February local Peter Gillon with some of his fellow members from the Western Suburbs Spiders group were anticipating riding the Alps to Ocean Ride in the South Island. It sounded exciting, so a couple of locals, Murray and Raewyn Brown along with Peter's wife Etta Gillon, decided to join in.

They had a thoroughly enjoyable experience, but found it challenging at times. The Alps to Ocean Cycle Trail is over 300kms from Mt Cook or Lake Tekapo to Oamaru. The terrain is pretty varied from sparse hilly areas to wetlands, Anatin fossil sites, elephant rocks, Maori Rock Art, Caves, the Rakis tunnel, salmon farms, Lake Tekapo and Lake Ohau, clay cliffs surrounded by streams, limestone blocks, valley wine country, farmland stations, wool sheds, the Benmore and Aviemore dams and Ritchie Macaw township Kurow with its beautiful views of the mountains in the back ground.

The hospitality throughout the cycle trail in the South Island was wonderful. The Lake Ohau Lodge stay was a highlight for us all and the views from Tambre at an altitude of 900m being its highest point was stunning, a panoramic vista. "If you enjoy cycling, it is certainly a must do ride"

Another great ride - this time by Whenuapai local Paul Struthers

While we are the topic of cycling, we take time to congratulate one of our local cyclists from Whenuapai, Paul Struthers, on his tremendous effort in coming second overall in last month's "the BDO Tour of Northland Race." The event follows the Twin Coast Discovery Highway which then "takes in" both the East and West Coast of Northland, from Whangarei – Russell, Paihia – Opononi, Opononi to Dargaville and back to Whangarei. He came in first for his age group and his team called "Rock Steady Crew" were first overall on the Team leader Board. A fantastic achievement Paul we are all proud of you! Well Done!

Whenuapai Floral & Garden Circle

The second meeting for the year was chaired by long-time member Pat Hooper. Fifty members were present and all were welcomed to the proceedings. A reminder that the Club Birthday celebration is now to be held a fortnight ahead of the usual time and members are responsible for their own transport to the venue which is the Huapai Golf Club.

Dr Keith Hammett was our Guest speaker. Google says he is "New Zealand's leading professional breeder of ornamental plants. He originally studied Botany at the University of Southampton in the United Kingdom and followed with a PhD in Plant Pathology. Despite a scientific background and long research history Keith sees the creation of ornamental plants as an art form comparable to other areas of aesthetic activity." Although well known throughout the world, he came across as a well-grounded person, very unassuming, a thoroughly likeable chap, just a friendly neighbour really, sharing a few ideas and techniques with us.

He spoke mainly about dahlias but also about belladonna lilies. Garden Centres offer a limited range of plants but by sharing and swapping through Garden Clubs such as our own, we are all contributing to the conservation of plants. Some flowers are shown for their bloom only but leaves have interest as well and are varied. Nearly all show dahlias are double, meaning they are so full one cannot see the centre. Dr Keith looks at the characteristics of different plants and endeavours to bring them together in one. As he said, it is not a quick process, and can take in excess of thirty years to achieve a certain look, so he has proved that he is a patient man. He had samples from his breeding programme to show us and pointed out variations in the disc, collar, symmetry and size of the petals on the flowers.

The April meeting will be Easter themed and members asked to bring along "something" so no restrictions placed upon items for entry – the category is wide open; the sky is the limit! It will be interesting to see what wide range of crafts and ideas various people come up with.

Until next time, Happy Gardening from Mary Anne Clark

Herald Island Garden Club

In March, we visited three quite different gardens on the Island, with interesting ideas to try ourselves.

Anna's shift from a cottage garden:

Following a renovation, Anna changed the garden to a modern look with heaps of hedging to emphasis different levels and areas. She used mulenbechia, camelia, port wine magnolia and pseudopanaxlaetus, which she trims to varying sizes to distract your eye from fences and stairs.

Behind some of these are some sheltered citrus and in front of others star jasmine and dietes. The lush raised vege gardens tended by her husband are near the road front, which get the benefit of the sun and are also surrounded by a hedge not only to protect them, but to continue the theme.

Jeanette's waterside property:

The shiny brown coprosmas are a 'stand out' in the front garden and tie in well with some stained timber work. Jeanette has used a mixture of natives with bromeliads and succulents on the tiered pathways to the water and sometimes added in a splash of annuals for colour. A mirror is cleverly positioned on a retaining wall, reflecting some griselinia growing in front and a staghorn hides another section of the wall.

Some marine themed garden art is made from driftwood and big chunks of old timber look sculptural. On lower levels decking has an inlaid pattern and the handrails are connected with chunky rope, giving continuity to the various areas.

Gary's cliff-top garden – a work in progress:

Gary has only just started to landscape their new home that he has been building himself. The road front has two small native strips to each side of the driveway and the fence along the front boundary ties into the wall cladding of the house, making the home very private.

Gary is going to plant native grasses around the small lawn next to the outdoor living area and also a mixture of low growing natives on the retained seaside boundary. The focus is all about the very restful view of the water. We look forward to being invited back to see the outcome one day.

Thanks to all of you for your hospitality.
